About ICF

The Idaho Community Foundation is Idaho's only statewide public foundation administering funds on behalf of a variety of donors to support Idaho charitable organizations.

Our mission: Enrich the quality of life throughout Idaho. The Idaho Community Foundation works to enrich the quality of life for Idahoans by:

- Gathering funds from groups, foundations and individual donors locally, regionally and nationally, and helping them create charitable funds that meet their philanthropic goals.
- Growing the funds through prudent, carefully considered, long-term investments to create a permanent endowment that fulfills donors' charitable objectives, meets the greatest needs in our communities, and supports philanthropy in Idaho.
- Granting funds to nonprofit organizations, public and private K-12 and higher education institutions, and to cities and counties for a broad variety of worthwhile and critical projects statewide.

The Mentoring Network, Inc. serves Nampa, Caldwell, Parma and Homedale school districts.

Bob Hoover

Dear Friends of the Idaho Community Foundation,

The release of the Idaho Community Foundation 2009 Annual Report occurs just as I am completing my 10th month as ICF president/CEO. Prior to coming to ICF, my wife Leslee and I had been associated with higher education all of our adult lives. Now we find ourselves working with an extraordinary group of nonprofits and donors who comprise a large portion of Idaho's philanthropic community. We have found more stimulation and fulfillment in this new nonprofit philanthropy world than we ever dreamed possible. She and I thank you for embracing us in this new role and for your support of ICF.

This annual report will provide more than our financials for the past year. It also tells the stories of the nonprofits to which we have provided grants, the generous people who have started funds with us, and our wonderful members and donors. I am pleased at how the Foundation has weathered the difficult financial period, but I am similarly disheartened by our inability to provide more support to Idaho's nonprofits and agencies which have experienced unprecedented demands on their services because of this recession.

In order to help more of these nonprofits and agencies, we need to raise ICF's profile throughout the state. One of the key initiatives of the ICF Strategic Plan is to raise our visibility statewide and enhance our communications. As part of that initiative, ICF staff and I have visited all 44 Idaho counties and many of our communities during the past year. We have met community leaders, donors and nonprofits in the small towns of Blanchard, Naples, Bonners Ferry, Marsing, Murphy, Payette, Fish Haven, Preston, Ashton and Driggs, and in the larger cities of Boise, Coeur d'Alene, Idaho Falls, Pocatello, Twin Falls, Caldwell, Nampa and Meridian. We have been in the beautiful interior and met the people of McCall, Ketchum, Challis and Salmon. We have visited the people and groups along the Bear, Priest, Pend Oreille, and Coeur d'Alene lakes and the Snake, Henry's Fork, Salmon, Clearwater, Clark Fork, Kootenai, Boise, Payette, and Weiser rivers.

We plan to present ICF's story to 60 service groups this year and as we close the first third of 2010, we have made 20 presentations across the state. We have updated our print and electronic communication materials because we recognize there are many different ways of communicating these days. We encourage you to subscribe to our electronic newsletter and invite you to become our fan on Facebook and follow us on Twitter.

That said, I add that we still know the value of meeting face-to-face and we will open offices in Idaho Falls and Twin Falls later this year thanks to very supportive Board members and we hope to open an office in Coeur d'Alene as well. Beginning this summer, we will organize our schedules so that an ICF staff person is in eastern and north Idaho two weeks each month and in southwestern Idaho the rest of the time. We will increase our statewide presence further by hosting Regional Luncheons in Ketchum, Coeur d'Alene and Idaho Falls in August and September and hope to see you there.

As you read our 2009 Annual Report, you will find the stories, photos and quotes that share our mission – to enrich the quality of life throughout Idaho. It is at the very heart of what we do and I thank you for your generous support of ICF and hope we can count on it in the future.

Sincerely,

How We Invest

ICF invests its endowment for the long term. The goal is to preserve or increase the value of the endowment while continuing to distribute grants. Funds such as philanthropic gift funds and special project funds which are not endowed and are fully expendable are invested in liquid money market instruments.

“ICF is dedicated to both growing our endowment for the long-term, and maintaining consistent, increasing grant-making,” said Irv Littman, ICF Treasurer and Chairman of the Investment Committee. “The benefits of sharing investment management and foundation administration are significant and create more opportunities to benefit our community.”

The endowment consists of a diversified portfolio of stocks and bonds, allocated among asset classes—65% domestic equities, 15% international equities and 20% domestic fixed income. The Foundation does not invest in derivatives and does not make investments which have restrictions on liquidity.

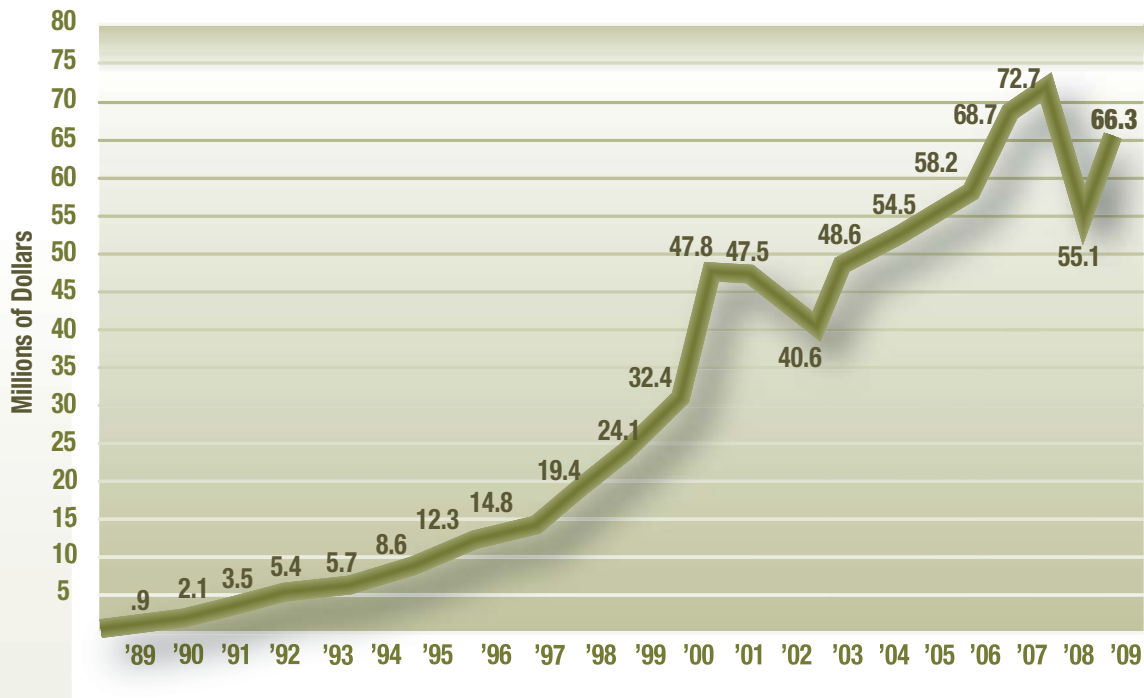

Managers are hired for specific investment assignments. ICF currently retains the equity managers Dimensional Fund Advisors, Wells Capital Management and The Vanguard Group. The Foundation’s fixed income manager is State Street Global Advisors. Strategic Investment Solutions provides consultation.

(1) Land for resale includes two non-cash contributions of property donated to the Foundation. These pieces of property will be sold and the proceeds will enable the donors to fulfill their charitable interests.

(2) During 2000 the Foundation adopted Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 136, which specifically requires that if a not-for-profit organization establishes a fund at a community foundation with its own funds and specifies itself as the beneficiary of that fund, the community foundation must account for the transfer of such assets as a liability. The Foundation refers to such funds as agency endowments. For financial reporting purposes, distributions from agency endowments in the amounts of $297,623 in 2008 and $320,100 in 2009 are not included in the reported Grants and Distributions of the Foundation.

(3) Represents outstanding pledges less reserves.

(4) Includes investment management fees of $128,169 in 2008 and $73,930 in 2009.

Friends of the Foundation

The Idaho Community Foundation Friends of the Foundation Award recognizes exceptional contributions to the success of the Foundation.

Friends of the Foundation 2009:

Robert I. & Barbara Troxell

As a young graduate of The College of Idaho in Caldwell, Bob Troxell wanted to attend law school but couldn't afford to go. Roy Harmon, a Caldwell businessman, learned of Troxell's desire to attend law school and generously offered to loan him the money. Troxell gratefully accepted the offer and was admitted to Boalt Hall, the prestigious law school at the University of California at Berkeley. He repaid Harmon's loan and never forgot his generosity. "The seed of helping others was planted," Troxell's daughter Ann Murdoch said.

After graduation he returned to Idaho to practice law in Caldwell. Later he became a founding partner of what would become one of Boise's most well-respected law firms, Hawley Troxell Ennis & Hawley. "He and my mother were very private people, and they quietly gave to many people and groups over the years," Murdoch said. In 1991 they established the Troxell Fund, Inc., a private family foundation.

After Bob's death in 1998, Barbara Troxell established the Robert I. and Barbara Troxell advised fund. She also established the Elinor Angelo Fund in 2000 in memory of her niece and the Troxell Greatest Need Fund in 2003. The Troxell Fund, Inc. established the Troxell Small Community Library field of interest fund in 2005 after Barbara and Ann visited a small library in Castleford, Idaho, where Barbara lived as a child. Barbara died in 2009 at age 100.

Murdoch said she recommends the Idaho Community Foundation to people who want to be involved in philanthropy because of her mother's positive experience with the Foundation. "Some people think you need millions of dollars, but it doesn't take a tremendous amount of money," she said. "You can make a difference in Idaho."

Barbara Troxell

King's Stores Fund and others provide places for seniors, and books to rural Idahoans

In 2009, the King's Stores Fund gave more than $65,000 to charitable organizations throughout the West, primarily in Idaho. Of that, more than $14,000 went to 28 senior centers throughout Idaho. Other recipients include Teton Valley Education Foundation, Boy Scouts of America Snake River Council and the Raft River Bookmobile.

Carol Parker, director of the Franklin County Senior Citizens Center, said grants from funds like King's Stores are the only way her senior center can continue to provide service. Her center was able to install a new floor in its facility thanks to gifts like this one.

"Without these kinds of donations we wouldn't be able to do that, nor would we be able to provide other kinds of services like home delivered meals," she said.

Janis C. Durfee runs the Raft River Bookmobile, an impressive partnership with Box Elder County, Utah that provides books to residents of rural southern Idaho. Last year the bookmobile loaned more than 18,000 books and increased its service to twice a month in Idaho.

Durfee said there are no libraries within 50 miles of the region with the exception of school libraries. The bookmobile brings as many as 7,000 books, DVDs and books on tape each trip and offers many currently popular selections.

"It's vital to our community. We all check out armloads of books," she said. "One mother with several kids brought a milk crate last time. The high school principal tells me he sees kids carrying books everywhere – reading in the hallways, reading at sporting events."

Durfee said she is very thankful for the generosity of the Lex and Celia Kunau Fund, King's Stores Fund and ICF.

"This is a farming community and most people don't have much money," she said. "We wouldn't be able to function with this support."

Raft River residents are 50 miles from the Burley Library so the bookmobile comes to southern Idaho twice each month with 5,000-7,000 books for children and adults.

Idaho Community Foundation Funds

ICF has more than 400 funds and we thank each of our fund creators for their generosity and their interest in promoting philanthropy in Idaho. Setting up a fund with ICF is free and simple. It's also less expensive than establishing a private foundation, is easier to manage and may offer additional tax advantages.

Some of our funds were established to benefit specific causes or charitable organizations. Others were started by those who want to give support to the greatest needs in the state. ICF helps donors establish funds that best meet their goals and the needs of Idaho communities.

For descriptions of these funds, go to www.idcomfdn.org and click on Funds in the Foundation.

ENDOWED FUNDS

Permanent funds established to provide long-term support. Assets are invested and a small portion of the balance is available for annual distribution.

Turn Around Scholarship Fund

Rocky Mountain High School counselor Alyson Townsley started the Turn Around Scholarship Fund in 2006 and awarded its first scholarships to two students last year.

The scholarship is for Meridian or Boise students who have had difficult home situations and successfully turned their lives around and graduated from high school.

As a counselor, Townsley works with many of these students. As she searched for scholarships to help them attend college, she found that most are based on grade point average for their high school careers or on athletic ability or talent.

“These kids are in survival mode—they don’t have time for trumpet lessons,” Townsley said. “Many of them were in their junior or senior year before the light went on about attending college.”

Townsley raised the money needed for the endowment over three years by holding bake sales, placing newspaper advertisements, sending letters requesting donations and writing grants. She received donations from friends, family and anonymous supporters.

She also received a $1,000 from the Fund for Joe’s Kids, an ICF fund created by the family and friends of the late Joe Cenarrusa for children’s programs, $1,000 from Idaho Mountain Touring and $500 from United Heritage. Over the past three years she has received $15,000 from the Gladys E. Langroise Advised Fund, an ICF fund that supports organizations that provide for the health, education and welfare of youth.

She said she is grateful for the amount of support she received from donors and grants.

“The need for this scholarship is huge,” she said. “There are lots of kids living in very dysfunctional homes. Most scholarships are given to kids who already have a lot of support. This one is for these underdogs who don’t have that.”

Townsley said she was deeply affected by the applications of last year’s scholarship recipients.

One was a Meridian Academy student whose father died when she was 16 and three months pregnant and whose mother disappeared less than a year later. She is now a pre-med student at The College of Idaho in Caldwell.

The other was a Central Academy student who moved to Idaho with her twin sister after the death of their father following a long illness. She and her twin took turns caring for him and their two brothers, which caused them both to fall behind in school. She now attends Eastern Oregon University where she’s majoring in business management.

Because of the support Townsley’s received and her continued fund raising, she’ll have more money to offer students like these in 2010.

“If I don’t help these kids, I’m not doing my job,” she said. “These are kids who have proven they can be productive in their lives. You can throw anything at them and they can handle it.”

Boise Police, ICF partner on Boise Police Canine Foundation

The Boise Police Department, with the assistance of the Idaho Community Foundation, has established the Boise Police Canine Foundation to raise money to purchase, train, and provide equipment, food and other supplies for additional police dogs.

ICF President Bob Hoover said the foundation was pleased to be able to assist Boise PD with this important project.

“This is a great opportunity for ICF to assist the City of Boise with an important project that will maintain and improve the safety and livability of the city,” Hoover said.

The fund is a first for both Boise PD and ICF. Boise PD has never had the ability to raise money to purchase equipment and supplies and ICF has never worked with a city department to establish such a fund.

“This is very exciting for our department. We know citizens love and appreciate the work the dogs do,” said Boise Police Deputy Chief of Administration Patricia Braddock. “These canines are not pets. They are highly trained, highly trusted members of our police force who serve the community in many important ways every day. We expect a lot of people will be anxious to help improve and support the Boise Police canine program.”

Officer Mike Nance said having additional dogs would be very helpful to the department. His 8-year-old German Shepherd named Blek has helped officers seize $50,000 in cash, $100,000 in property, 19 guns and $150,000 in drugs over the years.

“When we found out that money from this fund would be going to our unit we were all excited,” said Nance, who has been a canine handler for Boise PD for five years. “The dogs will pay for themselves if we can get the initial costs covered.”

Boise Mayor Dave Bieter and Police Chief Mike Masterson accept a donation to the Boise Police Canine Foundation from Platt Electrical Supply.

2009 Grants and Distributions

Thanks to the generosity of our donors, the dedicated work of our volunteer Regional Grants Panels and our donor advisors, and the commitment of those who write and submit grant applications, the Idaho Community Foundation provided nearly $5 million in grants, special project fund distributions and scholarships to enrich the quality of life throughout Idaho in 2009. Since 1988, ICF has distributed more than $48.9 million for worthwhile philanthropic projects.

Questions about Grants and Distributions

Why are some Idaho counties funded more than others?

Some areas and charities benefit directly from Field of Interest funds which are established by donors who want to create perpetual funding for specific geographic regions, fields of interest or nonprofits.

Why does ICF grant outside of Idaho?

Each fund established in ICF must be of substantial benefit to Idaho. However, ICF considers the advice of donors who may have roots or interests in other states.

The Panhandle Alliance for Education: Promoting excellence in education

The Panhandle Alliance for Education (PAFE) was formed in 2002 by a small group of citizens concerned about public school funding, and is modeled after local education foundations across the United States. Its mission is to promote excellence in education and broad-based community support for Lake Pend Oreille School District.

In its first six years, PAFE has made teacher and school grants totaling more than $1 million and has built a $1.4 million endowment with ICF. It is also the beneficiary of a $100,000 endowment for art, music and general education. Every school in the Lake Pend Oreille School District (LPOSD) has received more than one grant. Like ICF, grant making is at the heart of what PAFE does.

“It’s exciting to see the innovative ideas that our teachers present in their annual grant applications,” said Marcia Wilson, executive director for PAFE. “I am amazed at the fantastic opportunities our students participate in. Most are hands-on experiences that leave lasting impressions and instill a lifelong love of learning.”

PAFE-funded projects are diverse. In 2009, $125,000 was awarded to 47 projects including:

- An alternative energy project that taught middle school students about aerodynamics, drag, traction and friction, then culminated with each student building a 12-inch long solar car.
- A district-wide program to provide arts education to 1,500 rural third- through sixth-graders, who would not otherwise receive visual arts education.
- A carpentry project for high school students to build greenhouses from kits and sell them to fund the project in subsequent years.

“The quality of the grants has improved every year and the selection process has gotten harder and harder,” said PAFE President Wendy Dunn. “The teachers have also gotten more creative and more innovative.”

PAFE also runs several highly successful programs including Ready! for Kindergarten, an early childhood literacy program for parents; Career Guidance Counselor, which provides every graduating senior with a plan for their future, whether it’s college, technical school, the military or other post-secondary training; and the Reading Program, a four-year comprehensive staff development project designed to significantly improve reading instruction and student achievement at all grade levels in the Lake Pend Oreille School District.

In April 2010, PAFE received the prestigious Friend of Education award from the Idaho Education Association. PAFE founder Bill Berg said the goal of PAFE is to supplement state funding, not supplant it.

“We look for underserved areas, such as pre-kindergarten and counseling for college, and invite the teachers and principals to tell us how they can best fill the gaps with our help,” Berg said. “We’ve had a wonderful and remarkable collaboration with LPOSD over the years.”

Dunn said she has been proud of her association with PAFE because of the high-quality projects that have emerged due to the hard work and collaboration of the teachers, students and administrators who have participated in the program.

“Just because we’re a small town in Idaho doesn’t mean we can’t have top-notch schools,” Dunn said. “Everyone has a dream and this is a way to provide for helping those dreams go forward.”

Teachers at Sandpoint Middle School received the Georgia Shonk-Simmons Innovation Award to teach about the human brain including neurons, the effects of drugs on the brain, and the basic structure of the brain. Students conducted a variety of labs including sheep-brain dissections.

“My daughter loved and enjoyed this camp! The counselors are “awesome” (my daughter’s comment) and the camp is very well organized. Participation in this camp sparked my child’s interest in science. She came home every day with many good stories to tell. She came up with new ideas of how to use our recycling. I appreciated daily questions in the newsletter. I learned new things too!”

– Parent of a student who participated in the Idaho Camp Invention Program, which combines science, math, history and the arts into hands-on activities for first- through sixth-graders.

Mandy was one of six puppies left in a box in front of our shelter's door. She and all her sisters and brothers have found wonderful homes! Through the years, Benewah County Humane Society has greatly benefited from the consistent support from the Idaho Community Foundation.
