Thank You

This is the 25th Anniversary of the Idaho Community Foundation and we hope you will help us celebrate! We would not be here today if not for the foresight, hard work and dedication of our early founders and supporters. We are also thankful to our more recent donors, members and friends. Together, all of you have helped us grow and flourish into one of Idaho's largest foundations.

FROM THE President

The Idaho Community Foundation is 25 years old this year. As part of our Silver Anniversary celebration, the 2012 Annual Report features stories about the people and organizations that helped make possible Idaho's only statewide community foundation and who encouraged its growth over the past 25 years.

ICF was incorporated in November 1988 and by its one-year anniversary it had 82 members and assets of nearly $1 million. At the close of 2012, ICF had more than 900 members, our endowment was nearly $75 million, our overall assets were $95 million, and we had nearly 500 funds. Since the first grant distributions in 1991, ICF has granted more than $65 million to over 4,000 nonprofits and agencies, including more than $7 million in 2012 alone.

Those dollars have gone to support many of Idaho's charitable activities and initiatives, and have helped children like Alfredo, a four-year old boy in eastern Idaho whose dental evaluation through his Head Start Program revealed that he had 15 decayed teeth and was suffering severe infection. Due to the pain of his infection, he was not eating and weighed only 24 pounds.

With help from the Regence Caring Foundation and grants from Idaho Community Foundation funds including the Kissler Family Foundation, Bernie and Warren McCain Fund, the Gladys E. Langroise Advised Fund, the Fund for Joe's Kids and the Idaho Women's Charitable Foundation Member's Fund, Alfredo was able to get the surgery and treatment he needed. Ten years later he is a normal Idaho teenager.

Since 2002, the Panhandle Alliance for Education in east Bonner County has provided extraordinary financial support to teachers in the Lake Pend Oreille School District through its ICF agency fund. Its signature program is grants to teachers and principals who seek support for educational projects, supplies or equipment that aren't otherwise available. Since 2003, 388 grants have been awarded, totaling more than $1 million.

One of the reasons for ICF's successful management of these funds is due to the work of the ICF Investment Committee. The committee takes a very long, patient view on investing. It has faith in equities, which have consistently outperformed bonds over the last 100 years. The committee also believes in diversity and invests in domestic and international stocks, REITs, TIPS, and small cap and large cap funds. There's also diversity in investing style with our paid financial managers: we have the analytical approach with Dimensional Fund Advisors, the stock-pickers in Wells Capital Management, and index with The Vanguard Group. State Street Global Advisors provide a fixed income balance to the equity side of investments.

We are so thankful to all of you who have entrusted us with your funds over the past 25 years and we are in awe of the work accomplished by those who receive ICF grants. We are proud to be your partners as we all work to enrich the quality of life throughout Idaho, and we look forward to the next 25 years.

Gladys E. Langroise

In 2000, Boise philanthropist Gladys E. Langroise was responsible for creating ICF's largest endowed fund ever – a $15 million bequest that benefits the health, education and welfare of youth.

Today, the Gladys E. Langroise Fund in ICF has distributed more than $6.8 million. Mrs. Langroise specified that 50 percent of the fund's annual distribution should go to The College of Idaho in Caldwell, the Boise Philharmonic, the Children's Home Society and organizations that benefit Native American children. Of the remaining 50 percent, 25 percent goes to ICF's Regional Competitive Grant Cycles and 25 percent is decided by the fund's advisors, Dean Buffington and Roger Martell, who became acquainted with Gladys when her husband Bill Langroise died and they were called to help settle his considerable estate.

Gladys was born in 1900 in Oklahoma, but grew up in the upscale Pacific Heights neighborhood of San Francisco and was educated at a finishing school where she was instructed in proper hosting and protocol. Despite her refined background and petite size, she was an accomplished wood carver.

Her first husband was Jack Dempsey, a widower with three children who was 21 years her senior. Dempsey served as a Congressman from New Mexico and then as governor, making Gladys the First Lady of New Mexico from 1943-46.

The Dempseys built a home in Santa Fe when Jack became Governor, which included doors intricately carved by Gladys that featured Spanish and Indian designs and colors. Gladys also carved several of the heavy, handsome chairs in the home.

After leaving the governor's office, Jack regained his congressional seat and the couple moved back to Washington, D.C. where they occasionally socialized with President Franklin D. Roosevelt, President Harry S. Truman and Bill Langroise, a Boise attorney who visited Washington to argue cases in front of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Gladys Langroise

After Jack passed away in 1958, Gladys returned to Santa Fe and began her philanthropic endeavors. Bill Langroise became a widower during this time and he and Gladys reconnected. They were married in 1966, on the condition that Bill would bring her breakfast in bed every morning. Bill passed away in 1980, and Gladys stayed in Idaho in her beautiful 5,400-square foot Tudor home on Warm Springs Boulevard, which she later donated to the Boise State University Foundation.

Bill and Gladys were passionate supporters of the arts, and in 1994 she donated $6 million to the College of Idaho for the Gladys and William Langroise Center for the Arts and an additional $2 million to endow the Langroise Trio as artists-in-residence at the college.

Buffington and Martell said that while they knew Gladys well, they didn't know how she developed her particular philanthropic support of children and education. She never had children of her own.

"Mrs. Langroise never really discussed why she had the passion for youth and education but her feelings were strong," said Buffington, who noted her passion for the Warm Springs Counseling Center was because it was near her Boise home and had once been an orphanage.

"She was not shy. She had a great sense of humor and she enjoyed conversation, but I never learned how she became interested in those areas," Martell said.

Gladys Langroise passed away in 2000 at the age of 99.

John Fery

As CEO and Chairman of the Board of Boise Cascade for 22 years, John Fery learned to recognize a good idea when he heard one and to pursue it vigorously. So when Fery was approached by D. Whitman Jones, who was on the Whittenberger Foundation Board of Directors, in 1986 about the idea of a community foundation in Idaho, Fery immediately endorsed the idea.

“At the outset it was obvious to me and others that the community foundation concept was sound and would enhance charitable giving in Idaho,” Fery recalls.

Fery and Jones put together an exploratory committee in 1987, which quickly grew into a Steering Committee to establish the Idaho Community Foundation. Fery recalls that while the idea was almost universally supported, it still wasn't easy.

“Any new concept takes a little selling,” he said. “But there are a lot of charitable minded people in Idaho and they could see that this would enrich the quality of life throughout the state.”

Fery said the early work of the Steering Committee involved meeting with business leaders, government officials, nonprofits and other community leaders, in addition to listening to lots of advice from other community foundations and private foundations. Idaho's business leaders helped finance ICF's early start-up costs and they encouraged their employees to participate.

“There was such a sense of purpose and camaraderie between the Steering Committee and the first Board of Directors,” Fery said. “They were wonderful, dedicated people who all became friends.”

Fery said he's been proud to see the growth of the Idaho Community Foundation over the past 25 years and has high hopes for its future. He'd like to see more discretionary money in ICF's future so the Foundation could pursue more statewide initiatives like Together Idaho and Leadership Councils.

“I want to see ICF continue to attract new donors who may not be playing a charitable role in significant ways,” he said. “There are people in their mid-40s and 50s who are living very comfortably and who could be playing a larger philanthropic role.”

Alice and Tom Hennessey

Alice Hennessey has played a key role in some of the defining moments in the Idaho Community Foundation's 25-year history. It was Alice who picked up the $15 million check from the estate of Gladys Langroise in 2000 and carried it in her purse to deposit it at U.S. Bank. "It was kind of a surreal feeling walking through downtown Boise with that kind of money. I wanted to get it in the bank as quickly as possible," she recalls with a smile.

It was Alice who flew to California in 1999 at the request of a CPA who had a client who wished to speak with her. Alice met with the woman at her beautiful oceanview home in Aptos, and learned that the woman, Jean Adams, was a 1946 graduate of Mountain Home High School. Even though Adams had left Idaho and never lived here again, she valued the education she had received and gave Alice a $200,000 check to establish a scholarship for Mountain Home High School students who were staying in Idaho for college. "It was really touching to talk with her because she loved Mountain Home, and she loved Idaho and we were able to provide her exactly what she wanted," Alice said.

Alice has been President and CEO of ICF twice, from 1996-2004 and as an interim from 2008-2009. She was on the Steering Committee that established the foundation, joined the first Board of Directors, and was a Founding Donor. She traveled the state with her husband Tom meeting with businesses, the media and community leaders to garner support for ICF. A community foundation had never existed in Idaho and the concept was not well known in the West in the late 1980s. Still, she never doubted it would be successful.

"The geography was a killer. We didn't realize how challenging the size of Idaho would be for us, and there were some early naysayers for other reasons, but most people realized it would be a fabulous contribution to philanthropy in the state," she said.

Under Alice's leadership, the number of funds in the Foundation more than doubled to over 300. Total assets quadrupled to $48.6 million during her tenure, and membership grew many times over.

She said she hopes ICF will continue its momentum in the next 25 years – especially when it comes to growing assets. She'd like to see more unrestricted money available in the future for programs and initiatives. But most of all she hopes that ICF will always remember the needs of Idaho's smallest communities.

"I hope we never lose touch with rural Idaho," she said. "Boise and the other urban areas will always do well philanthropically, but rural Idaho needs help, and they are so grateful for what ICF can do for them."

The Chesbro Family

One of Idaho's most successful family-owned music establishments, Chesbro Music Co., celebrated 101 years in business in 2012. Chesbro Music's Chief Executive Officer Vanetta Chesbro Wilson is a member of ICF's Upper Snake River Valley Leadership Council and her sister Tana Jane Stahn is Chesbro Music's Chief Financial Officer.

The Chesbro family has a long history with ICF. They established one of the foundation's earliest funds and later established a second one.

"Giving back to the community and helping others is and was a big part of our culture growing up and has been part of the 'Chesbro Heritage,'" Vanetta said.

Founded in 1911 in Seattle by Vanetta and Tana's great-grandfather, Horace Chesbro, the store moved to Idaho Falls in 1921. Over the years it grew from a local music retailer to a distributor serving instrument dealers in the western United States. Chesbro remains one of the largest distributors of print music in the United States.

Much of the growth came during the leadership of Vanetta and Tana's mother Joan Chesbro Thomas. Joan was a graduate of Idaho Falls High School, Stevens College in Missouri and Stanford University. She was a management trainee at a National Bank in San Francisco when she learned her parents Henry and Mary Jane Chesbro and her only brother Paul Chesbro had been killed in a plane crash. She returned to Idaho Falls to join her grandmother Ella Chesbro in running the family business.

The company grew and flourished under the leadership of Joan, Ella and a great management team. Joan was a woman who headed a company at a time when there weren't a lot of women CEOs, Vanetta said.

Vanetta Chesbro Wilson and Tana Jane Stahn

"She has been a great role model to me and my sister and to many other women business professionals in our community," she said.

Joan established the Chesbro Family Music Fund at ICF in 1992 to support and enhance music in eastern Idaho. It was ICF's 69th fund and the fifth one established in eastern Idaho. Vanetta and Tana make decisions about how the fund should be distributed every year.

Following their mother's passing, Vanetta and Tana established the Chesbro Philanthropic Gift Fund in Joan's memory in 2002. Distributions from this fund advance music programs and music education in southeast Idaho.

"ICF brings funding resources together and helps organizations become aware of funds that are available for their needs," Tana said. "Idaho citizens are very generous and want to give people a helping hand. It means a lot to be able to help people in your own area and state."

Funds

ICF has almost 500 funds and we thank each of our fund creators for their generosity and interest in promoting philanthropy in Idaho. Some of our funds were established to benefit specific causes or organizations. Others were started by those who want the Regional Competitive Grants Panels to recommend to the Board of Directors which charities should receive grants. ICF helps donors establish funds that best meet their goals and the needs of Idaho communities.

Endowed Funds

Permanent funds to provide long-term support. Assets are invested and a small portion of the balance is available for annual distribution.

Agency

For nonprofits who want to participate in a large investment pool. A nonprofit may transfer all or part of its endowment to ICF, which allows it to participate in ICF's investment program. ($50,000+ can be pledged over five years)

Setting up an ICF fund is easy...

Choose Your Fund

ENDOWED FUNDS – Permanent funds established to provide long-term support. Assets are invested and a small portion of the balance is available for annual distribution.

NON-ENDOWED FUNDS – Fully expendable funds invested in conservative, liquid money market instruments that allow for immediate distributions and maximum flexibility.

Decide When

You can create your fund now or establish it as part of your estate. Tax deductions are realized at the time of the gift.

Decide How

Funds can be created with many different kinds of assets including: cash, checks or money orders; appreciated property (securities or real estate); tangible personal property (art or other collectables); private foundation transfer; bequests; qualified retirement plans; life insurance; and/or charitable gift annuity

Execute a Fund Agreement

Work with ICF staff to draft and execute a fund agreement outlining your wishes and instructions.

Harry and Colleen Magnuson

Every December 29, Harry Magnuson liked to tell his five children how he met their mother on that day in 1947. Colleen Burns had stopped by a Wallace establishment with a friend to buy two Cokes and two bus tickets back home to Osburn when Magnuson spotted her. He asked the cashier for her name and the cashier brought him the $2 check she'd written.

Magnuson kept that check under lock and key until the day he died in 2009. The couple was married 59 years.

Harry was one of ICF's incorporators in 1988 and was a 10-year member of the Board of Directors. In 1990 he and Colleen established the Harry and Colleen Magnuson Fund, which provides grants to charitable organizations and activities in the city of Wallace through the Northern Idaho Regional Grant Cycle. Colleen still lives in Wallace.

Former Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus was a close friend of Harry and Colleen. He told the Shoshone News Press that although Harry was known as the "lion of Wallace" for his fierce defense of the town from the Federal Highway Administration when the agency wanted to bisect historic downtown Wallace with a four-lane interstate in the mid-1970s, he knew Magnuson as a kind man whose life revolved around Colleen, their children and the mining industry.

"I've seen tears pop into his eyes because some person was hurt or needed help," Andrus said.

Magnuson was a descendant of Silver Valley pioneers and the son of a meat-cutter. He left his hometown long enough to serve in the U.S. Navy during World War II and obtain an MBA from Harvard, and returned to establish an empire of small and large mining and real estate ventures.

Colleen was born in Kansas and spent her early childhood there until the relentless years of the Dust Bowl caused the family to pull up stakes and move to Idaho, where her father hired on as a miner. Her mother ultimately became the first woman postmaster in Osburn.

The couple was well known for their philanthropy. Harry was particularly supportive of Gonzaga University, the Coeur d'Alene Tribe and its Cataldo Mission, and anything to do with Idaho, including ICF. Colleen's passion was for the arts.

She established the Wallace Arts Council in 1988 and served as a state arts commissioner for six years. Andrus presented her with the Governor's Award in the Arts in 1994.

Her interest in art started when she was a second-grader in Kansas. She won a school spelling bee and received a print of "The Gatherers" by French artist Jean Charles Millet.

"It really piqued her interest because it was like nothing she'd ever seen in Kansas," said John Magnuson, one of Harry and Colleen's sons and a former ICF board director. Colleen brought the small print with her when the family moved to Idaho and still has it to this day.

John said appreciation of the arts and the value of philanthropy were part of everyday life in his family while growing up. "We didn't even know those values were being instilled because they were always there. It was a happy environment and we received positive encouragement to participate in a myriad of interests."

Even though Harry has received much recognition for his philanthropy and his contributions to Idaho, John said the couple was an equal partnership. "My mother was a quiet pillar of strength behind my father. They came together as a team and what they accomplished in life was as a team."
