From Our Leaders

Candi Allphin
Board Chair

Steve Burns
President & CEO

We are pleased to share the Idaho Community Foundation's Impact Report for 2022. This report is not about us, it is about you — the thousands of Idahoans we have the honor of working with to take care of Idaho communities. After all, that is what we are about, Idahoans taking care of Idaho.

As the only community foundation working in all 44 of Idaho's counties, our impact is greater than ever. As Idaho communities navigate the incredible growth we've seen as a state, the needs and opportunities are increasing. The work of the Foundation this year demonstrates the power of our partnership with you.

Throughout this report, you will read about Idahoans who are the caretakers of their communities - they are helping Idaho students excel, providing services to take care of our most vulnerable citizens, ensuring access to the arts, and much more. Our fundholders come from every corner of the state. They have different backgrounds. Different professions. Different passions and causes. But what unites them is that they have partnered with the Idaho Community Foundation in their philanthropy.

We are honored to work with you — the caretakers of your community. We are honored to play a role in making all of Idaho such a great place to live. And we are excited for what comes next.

Idaho needs the Idaho Community Foundation more than ever, and we have an obligation to respond in an even bigger way. We need to grow the amount and number of grants we make across the entire state. We need to grow the community of caretakers to increase the amount of support available to Idaho nonprofits.

Since 1988, we have partnered with many of Idaho's most prominent families. Whether your family has been here for five generations, or you moved here in the last five years, together, we need to take care of the place we call home.

Thank you for your support and we look forward to working with you in 2023.

We Can Do
More for Idaho

Please join our community of caretakers by:

- Telling people about your ICF charitable giving fund and letting us know if they'd like to start one of their own.

info@idahocf.org

- Feeding your fund. New contributions mean more grants, and many gifts are eligible for tax deductions.

idahocf.org/giving/donate-now

- Giving to Forever Idaho. Support Idaho's greatest needs as determined by the people who live in the communities being served.

Community of Caretakers

You're invited to join our Community of Caretakers. We help Idahoans make a bigger impact with their charitable gifts. Whether you want to make a long-term investment in your favorite nonprofit, or interest area, or want to increase the power of your donation by joining others and giving collectively, we can help. We are the only foundation in Idaho making community-driven grants throughout the entire state.

To me, ICF exemplifies the idea that many people working together and pooling their resources can achieve more for the greater good than we can working individually.

“At my age, you can’t take it with you.”

Nep Lynch

Two new ICF funds will support schools, give scholarships to students and provide athletic opportunities in Salmon and Lemhi County, thanks to 96-year-old Nep Lynch, who got his first job at age 12 making $2 per day.

Nep dedicated his life’s work to the career technical trades. Much of it was spent in lumber, where he worked every job available at logging camps and lumber mills, eventually owning mills in Montana and Idaho.

I’ve probably had 15 jobs in my lifetime and none of them were ever easy.

Nep Lynch

Nep – full name Neptune Alexander Lynch, IX – grew up on a cattle ranch outside of Plains, Montana, about 74 miles northwest of Missoula near the Idaho border.

He married his high school sweetheart Mary Ellen Livingston the summer after he graduated from high school. While Nep was working his way up the ladder at logging camps and mills, Mary Ellen worked as a camp cook. It was a challenging life, and they were a strong team. Mary Ellen passed away in December of 2018.

In recent years, Nep turned to his longtime friend Bill Allen for advice on which schools and organizations help students who want technical careers like logging.

Bill, a Salmon native and former Idaho Community Foundation Board Member, has been deeply involved in the community. Bill recommended ICF to help Nep meet his charitable goals.

Bill connected Nep with ICF Senior Philanthropic Advisor Kris Kamann. Together they designed funds to meet Nep’s charitable goals for the short- and long-term future of Salmon and Lemhi County.

At my age you can’t take it with you. Having lived in the Salmon, North Fork area for 50 years, I like the area. I wanted to help out.

Nep Lynch

The gift came from the Croy Canyon Ranch Fund Advisory Board, which established an ICF fund to build a continuing care community in Blaine County. When that effort ended, the advisory board decided to use the endowment to support community organizations that work with seniors.

Melba FFA created their own nonprofit following the devastating loss, using donations of more than $35,000 that were sent to them from generous people throughout the United States. In 2022, the Melba FFA nonprofit board decided to create an ICF Organizational Fund so they would have ICF's expertise to grow their investment and achieve even more success.

Our goal is to make sure the fund will perpetually honor the memories of Tami, Sherry, and Janine. We want Melba students to have financial support to achieve their dreams and goals just as they were striving to.

Travels with Steve: This Week at the Foundation

Since we are the IDAHO Community Foundation, part of my job is to travel the state. On these visits, I ask a lot of questions about the issues and opportunities facing the state of Idaho. It helps guide our grantmaking and connect our fundholders to the projects they are passionate about.

In 2022, I met hundreds of people across Idaho. The work they do across the state is inspiring. Thank you for giving me the chance to work with you and thank you for partnering with the Idaho Community Foundation.

Last year, I conducted Foundation business in 27 of Idaho's 44 counties. What a big, beautiful state we live in! And what amazing people live here! Here are a few of my most memorable:

In Adams County, I met with Colby Nielsen and Jennifer Dummar of the Payette Lakes Ski Club, which owns and operates the Little Ski Hill.

They use distributions from their ICF fund to provide ski lessons and equipment to children from Cascade to New Meadows. They pick the kids up after school, which lets their working parents finish the day and make ends meet. They help families with their uphill economic struggles by providing downhill exercise for their kids.

In Sandpoint, I met with Sharon McCahon, Linda Navarre and Brenda Hammond of the Bonner County Human Rights Task Force, which has an ICF fund. Over the years, the task force has helped educate people about the need to treat everyone with dignity and respect, no matter where you live or who you are.

In Twin Falls I met with Charles Kelly, the executive director of Optimist Youth House, and several of his board members. They provide services to young adults who are leaving foster care. Many of these 18- to 23-year-olds have no place to go and lack the skills to find a good-paying job or the support to pursue higher education. The Optimist Youth House provides a safe place and mentors these young people need so they too have something to be optimistic about.

In Pocatello, East Idaho Philanthropic Advisor Rich Ballou and I joined Nancy Greco and ICF Board Directors Ron Gallegos, Mary Vagner and Stephen Weeg in preparing and serving dinner one night for the clients at the Aid for Friends shelter, which has an ICF Organizational Fund and is a grantee. Their director, BJ Stensland, and her team work tirelessly to provide families and individuals a safe place to stay when they find themselves without a home. BJ's approach to her work is summed up in her organization's name. The people they serve are our friends and our neighbors, a good reminder and important distinction about who is affected by one of Idaho's most pressing issues.

In Idaho For Good

Community is our middle name and grantmaking is at the heart of what we do at the Idaho Community Foundation. Through the generosity of our fundholders and their deep love for Idaho, we have granted more than $165 million during the past 35 years. We don't tell communities what they need, we listen. What we hear is that Idaho communities need more. We're responding with a goal to nearly double our grantmaking to $20 million every year by 2028. We invite you to join us.

There are very limited health services within Boise County, such as counseling and psychotherapy, and not all of our communities even have basic health resources.

Amanda Leader

Administrator, Boise County Community Justice, which received a $10,000 Forever Idaho grant to fill gaps in behavioral health services.

Let's do even more for Idaho

At the Idaho Community Foundation, we help people make their communities even better through philanthropy.

In 2022, our fundholders granted

MORE THAN

$12 million

To support Idaho organizations and the causes that are important to them.

TOTAL GRANTMAKING SINCE WE WERE FOUNDED IN 1988

OVER $165 million

We are proud of what we've accomplished with our fundholders and donors in the last 35 years. As Idaho grows, we also need to grow to help our communities stay strong.

OUR GOAL IS TO GRANT

$20 million

Every year to communities of all sizes throughout Idaho by 2028, our 40th anniversary.

We invite you join us by:

- Increasing contributions to your fund and making even more grants from it. Our staff of philanthropic advisors is happy to provide information and advice about great nonprofits in your region.
- Telling your friends, neighbors and others in your community about our goal and encouraging them to start their own fund. Or introduce us them so we can understand their charitable goals.
- Helping us tell our story by following us on social media (Facebook, Instagram and LinkedIn) and sharing our posts in your network.

ICF Affiliates: 10 years of community giving

Ten years ago, ICF started the Together Idaho affiliate program to help rural communities increase grantmaking by establishing “mini ICFs” that would focus on supporting nonprofits, schools and community organizations in their geographic areas.

Now, a decade later, the three affiliates have made a difference in their communities through grantmaking, leadership and their willingness to come together to support the place they call home.

Grangeville Community Foundation (population 3,342)

GCF Board Member Carla Wilkins said a community fund to support Grangeville resonated with local residents.

Before GCF, when the swim team needed lane ropes – we fundraised. The T-ball team needed equipment – we fundraised. The GCF idea of creating an endowment to take care of those items just made sense.

Carla Wilkins

GCF Board Member

GCF will continue raising awareness of its work in Grangeville. Their long-term fundraising goal is to have an endowment of $1 million, which would provide nearly $43,000 in grants each year.

The Grangeville Community Foundation Advisory Board at their 10th Anniversary celebration.

We have many hardworking people in Grangeville doing great things for our community. GCF is helping to support this great work by providing funds for their projects that ultimately build a better place to live for all of us.

Mary Jahn

Former GCF Board Member

Lemhi Valley Community Foundation (population 7,974)

LVCF Board Member Tammy Stringham said they follow ICF's Forever Idaho model of trust-based philanthropy by providing unrestricted funding to nonprofits, schools and community organizations, which allows recipients to spend the grant on their greatest needs.

If their greatest need is operational expenses to keep their organization open to do its good work, then that is how we want them to use the funds.

Tammy Stringham

LVCF Board Member

Recently, LVCF has been in talks with a large local employer to create a long-term permanent fund at LVCF to support the community.

A partnership with them would help us meet our mission to inspire and utilize local philanthropy for community investment, lasting legacies and creating a better future in Lemhi County.

Tammy Stringham

Priest River Community Foundation (population 1,639)

The PRCF focuses its grantmaking on educational opportunities for local students, said PRCF Advisory Board Member Kerri Martin. In December 2022, PRCF received its nonprofit status, giving it additional flexibility in the community.

Several years ago, PRCF partnered with the Dolly Parton Imagination Library to provide one book per month to Priest River children from birth to age 5. In addition, PRCF purchased laptops and tablets for second graders to help them prepare for ISAT testing. For the community's older students, PRCF funds senior projects for 12th graders at Priest River Lamanna High School and more.

Even though PRCF is now a standalone nonprofit, ICF will continue to manage its Legacy Fund, which is endowed to last forever. Martin said the fund is currently more than $200,000 and they hope to reach $500,000.

We want to enrich students and community members so that they know the endless possibilities that exist even in a very small community.

Kerri Martin

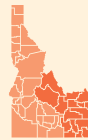

PRCF Advisory Board Member

Today, ICF offers Community Funds, which operate similarly to GCF, LVCF and PRCF. To learn more about establishing a Community Fund where you live:

New Staff in 2022

Peter Faucher, Philanthropic Advisor, North Idaho

Peter Faucher joined the Idaho Community Foundation in April. As the Philanthropic Advisor serving North Idaho, Peter works with individuals, families, companies and organizations to help them accomplish their philanthropic goals.

Raised in Coeur d'Alene, Peter worked at his family's tractor business while in high school. He earned a bachelor's degree from Boise State University and studied classical guitar at the University of Idaho Lionel Hampton School of Music.

With over a decade of fundraising experience, Peter was most recently with the NPR and PBS affiliate in Richmond, VA, where he worked with contributors and facilitated their on-air recognition as an account executive. Prior to joining the nonprofit world, he worked in the Senate of Virginia. He was also a production assistant at Idaho Public Television while finishing his undergraduate degree.

You can sometimes find him hiking on one of the many local trails or on Lake Coeur d'Alene.

Amanda Flater, Staff Accountant

Amanda joined the Idaho Community Foundation in April. As a Staff Accountant, she works closely with others on her team to complete the financial activities and daily operational tasks of the foundation, including processing gifts and other general accounting duties. Her degree in accounting is from Colorado Technical University.

Amanda and her husband Mike have lived throughout the United States as part of his active-duty military service. They moved to Idaho in 2020 and settled in Middleton with their daughters Amaya and Addyson and son Alex.

Her hobbies are hiking, kayaking, traveling and reading. She also loves all genres and eras of music, matching her listening to her task – cleaning house is classic rock, traveling with her family is 70s, 80s and 90s pop, and when she's feeling introspective, it's country.

Amanda previously worked as an accounting technician for Wake County Smart Start in North Carolina. She's enjoying working for a nonprofit again and seeing the difference that ICF makes in communities.

Ana Muniz, Database and Portfolio Administrator

Ana Muniz joined the Idaho Community Foundation in April. As a Staff Accountant, she works closely with others on her team to complete the financial activities and daily operational tasks of the foundation, including processing grants and other general accounting duties. She previously worked at Vacasa as a Trust Accountant.

Ana has a bachelor's degree in Spanish Foreign Language and Literature from Portland State University and Certificates of Achievement in Accounting, Business and Management from Coastline Community College. She spent her senior year of college studying in Spain and her first year after college teaching English in Mexico.

She and her family live in Boise with their German Shorthaired Pointer named Keyser. They enjoy camping, hiking, kayaking, skiing and snowshoeing. When it's cold and dark outside, she enjoys curling up with a good book.

She is proud to work at ICF because of its commitment to benefiting Idaho communities.
